DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. In view of the Appeal Brief filed on 11/05/2004, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED. A new grounds of rejection is set forth below.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

(1) file a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,

(2) request reinstatement of the appeal.

If reinstatement of the appeal is requested, such request must be accompanied by a supplemental appeal brief, but no new amendments, affidavits (37 CFR 1.130, 1.131 or 1.132) or other evidence are permitted. See 37 CFR 1.193(b)(2).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 3-10, 12, 21-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lilja et al (US 5,188,808).

As to claim 1, Lilja et al disclose a taylor reactor comprising an annular reactor volume with a disposed impeller (rotor), means for metered addition (10), during conversion there is a change in viscosity of reaction medium, the impeller is designed over the entire reactor, and the reactor is not mounted horizontally, and discharge means (11) is higher than metered addition (figure 3).

As to claim 3, external wall and rotor have an essentially circular circumference (figure 3).

As to claim 4, reactor is mounted vertically.

As to claim 5, the rotor is mounted centrically.

As to claim 6, means for discharge (12) is highest point of lid.

As to claim 7, annular gap widens in flow direction (figure 3).

As to claim 8, circumference of the wall increase in flow direction (figure 3).

As to claim 9, wall has the form of single frustum (figure 3).

As to claim 10, annular gap narrows in flow direction (figure 3, at bottom).

As to claim 12, wall is of a single frustum (figure 3).

As to claim 21 and 25, the circumference of rotor remains constant (figure 3).

As to claim 22 and 26, the circumference of rotor increases (figure 3).

As to claim 23 and 27, the circumference of rotor decreases (figure 3).

As to claims 24 and 28, the wall composed of plurality of frusta (figure 2).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lilja et al as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of GB 1,358,157.

Lilja et al disclose the claimed invention above, but lacks the disclosure of a circumference of the wall reduces in flow direction.

However, GB '157 discloses a circumference of the wall reduces in flow direction for the purpose of providing a laminar flow.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to provide reduce of wall circumference as taught by GB '157, in Lilja et al in order to achieve laminar flow.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 2 and 20 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior arts of record fail to teach one rotates while other remains stationary.
